Preface

Mississippi is more than a place on the map. It is a place in the heart.

Our homeland is the product of the people who have gone before us, and it is the promise for those who will come after us.

This statistical register is an accounting of Mississippi at one point in time: 1992-1996. It is a statistical "snap-shot" compilation of facts, information about state and local government, public officials and agencies, as well as a record of election results.

These facts alone only show us at this moment. They look not to the past or to the future. We Mississippians have learned some valuable, sometimes difficult lessons. Now we see a vision of the 21st Century, and we seek to be ready for it.

This Blue Book takes stock of our resources — natural and human — and reminds us of what is yet to be accomplished. We dedicate this publication to the future.

INTRODUCTION

Mississippi

If Mississippi's land could speak, it would tell stories of the people who came and settled here and how the land received them and slowly changed them, until they were no longer Indian, European, African — but Mississippian.

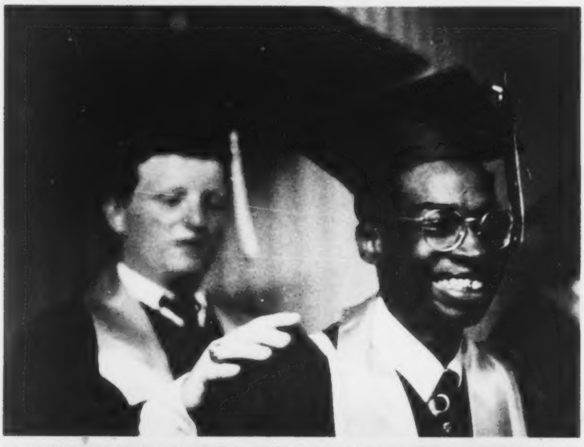
This state is widely known by two nicknames: the Magnolia State and the Hospitality State. Natural beauty and a warm, welcoming nature are but two aspects of Mississippi's personality.

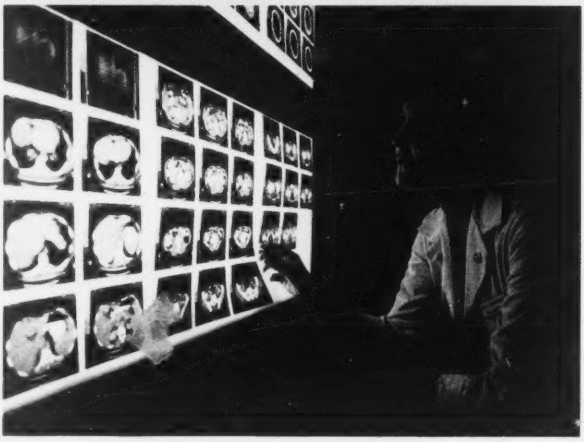
Mississippians are fiercely protective of their rich traditions of family, home, and the land. They are united by a strong sense of place — a sense of community and of belonging to the land.

Mississippi's pride of place has had both a positive and negative effect on her history. Such pride led Mississippi to secede from the Union and led to post-war policies of social, economic, and political segregation of the black population of the state.

One positive effect of this pride of place led Mississippi to change from a single-crop agrarian dependence on cotton to a diversified economy where more of her citizens are employed in industry than in agriculture. Today, Gov. Hugh White's dream to "Balance Agriculture With Industry" is closer to reality with the state among the nation's foremost producers of timber, oil, natural gas, cotton, rice, poultry, and catfish.

Mississippians are forging community coalitions to broaden educational and economic opportunities to meet the challenges of a global marketplace. Today, Mississippi is discovering ways to breach the destructive barriers of pride, while nurturing its positive aspects of human achievement and commitment to the collective good. Mississippi will carry the perspectives of the old and the new into the 21st Century.





A place of great beauty

Mississippi is beautiful. Her rivers are plentiful, lush forests expansive, and her beaches sprawling across the rim of the Gulf of Mexico. The climate is ideal for work or play with mild winters intermingled with warm, spring-like days; the summers hot and long enough to grow crops through October. The state contains 47,715 square miles of valleys and hills, growing cities and small towns, forests and lakes.

Mississippians are proud of the vast natural resources with which they are blessed, and sentiments run strong to protect the land which has made life so rich. In the north, the large, fertile alluvial Delta was mostly swamp until the mid 1850s when by the sweat and blood of man and mule, some 300 miles of levees brought the means by which to tame this broad region. At the Delta's eastern edge, the land suddenly changes from table-flat to the rising Loess bluff hills stretching north into Tennessee and south into Louisiana. From Mississippi's northeast hills on south, the land changes into rolling farmlands, hardwood highlands, then red clay hills to fertile pasturelands on to piney forests eventually giving way to the man-made white sand beaches of the Gulf Coast.

Her people are quite naturally connected to the land, and thus to one another. Mississippi is home to 2.7 million people connected by place and history, whether new-comers or with antebellum family trees.

State of celebration

Mississippians pay tribute to their colorful history through antebellum pilgrimages in Natchez and Holly Springs, the Blessing of the Fleet on the Gulf Coast, the Vicksburg Military Park, and the Grand Village of the Natchez Indians. The state offers an opportunity to travel back beyond recorded history at Flora's Petrified Forest and forward to the stars at the Davis Planetarium in Jackson.

From humble and rural origins, Mississippians have become leaders of industry, athletes, newspaper editors, astronauts, dancers, artists, composers, and opera stars.

Creative legacies abound through the contributions of such long-acclaimed writers such as William Faulkner, Eudora Welty, Richard Wright, and Tennessee Williams, and new-generation Willie Morris, Beth Henley, and John Grisham; musicians from Leontyne Price and B.B. King to Elvis Presley, Paul Overstreet, and Marty Stuart; and actor/artists the stature of James Earl Jones, Jim Henson, Morgan Freeman, and Oprah Winfrey.

Mississippi is host to the International Ballet Competition and home to theatre and dance groups, orchestras, operas, and arts festivals in communities large and small in every corner of the state.

A legacy of athletic excellence is evidenced in such Mississippians as Will Clark, Jerry Rice, Walter Payton, and Archie Manning. Sports events of all kinds abound across the state, along with outdoor recreation in fields and forests, on lakes and streams, in the air and on the sea.

Political leaders have arisen from this state, as well, from the likes of the revered U.S. Senator L.Q.C. Lamar and Jefferson Davis to modern-day achievers exemplified by Mike Espy, the Clinton Administration's secretary of agriculture, and Haley Barbour, chairman of the Republican National Party.

Economic diversity

Mississippi's economy is a blend of products and services from the rich farmlands to the high-technological communications realm.

Agriculture continues as a major segment of the state's economy. Soybeans may lead cotton in acres, but cotton is still king of crops in terms of dollars, ranking Mississippi third behind Texas and California in production. Other important crops are corn, sorghum grain, rice, wheat, peanuts, sweet potatoes, and hay.

Fruits, vegetables, and pecans are other items important to the state's economy.

Mississippi is the world's leading producer of pond-raised catfish, while livestock and livestock products accounted for $1.3 billion in 1991. State researchers continue to explore future applications for agriculture and the refinement of its products.

Yet during the past 50 years, Mississippi has progressively deepened its commitment to diversification by increased industrial activity. Since 1965, more Mississippians have been employed in manufacturing than in farming. Combining its natural and human resources with innovations for economic incentives, Mississippi is attracting a broader spectrum of business, industrial, and technical operations, while providing its home-grown enterprises with many of the tools to expand here and around the world.

Gateway of opportunity

Mississippi's wealth of resources is enhanced by its strategic location as a gateway to the Sunbelt and a portal to Central and South America.

Major interstate highway systems and railway systems intersect the state, amplified by a network of air and water facilities. With year-round ice-free ports on the Mississippi River to the west, the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway to the east, and the Gulf of Mexico to the south, Mississippi offers access to two-thirds of the United States markets as well as Mexico, Central and South America, and the rest of the world.

Entrepreneurs of all types have made Mississippi their home — from scientists and doctors to researchers and engineers. The world's first human lung and heart transplants were accomplished at the University of Mississippi Medical Center. The Space Shuttle's main engines are test-fired at the Stennis Space Center in Hancock County. Peavey Electronics in Meridian leads the world in the manufacture of musical amplification. Jackson is headquarters to some of the world's leading communications systems.

Meanwhile, Mississippi's eight research centers are developing the technological breakthroughs for tomorrow in such esoteric fields as acoustics, polymer science, electricity, microelectronics, hydrodynamics, and oceanography.

Opportunities for education

Mississippi became a model for national change with passage of the Education Reform Act of 1982 under the leadership of a visionary governor, William Winter. Its public school system is composed of three tiers — primary education from kindergarten through grade 12, a community/junior college system, and the university system.

More than 500,000 school children attend classes in Mississippi's 154 public school districts. They come from diverse backgrounds and economic conditions, ultimately melding their educational accomplishments and social experiences into a firm basis from which to enter a multi-cultural, global society.

As early as the 1920s, Mississippi's leadership saw the merit of extending college opportunities into local communities. In 1928, the Legislature authorized establishment of junior colleges. By 1993, 15 community and junior college districts operated 33 centers with an enrollment exceeding 71,000 — 48 percent in academic courses, 22 percent in vo-tech programs, and 30 percent in continuing education and economic development activities.

The university system is composed of 11 established campuses, including the eight public universities, the University of Mississippi Medical Center, the Mississippi Education and Research Center, and the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory; and six degree-granting off-campuses centers and extension classes throughout the state.

In 1992, enrollment figures at the eight universities showed 58,140 students pursing academic degree credits.

Poised for the 21st Century

Mississippi is preparing for the next millenium.

Her people have a rich heritage from which to build. Mississippians have learned much from her citizens who love this state enough to change it. New skills and experiences have widened to meet the future's demands.

Mississippi is home. It speaks through every town, every name, every sight. It speaks of the past and its legacies, the present and its opportunities, the future and its promise. Through quality education and economic prospects for all, Mississippi will be poised to meet the 21st Century.

Mississippi will be a place where families will want to begin and grow — where natural beauty and a sense of place will hold you in an oft-tumultuous world. Not a perfect place, but a good place for all its people.

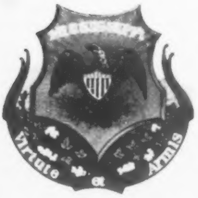
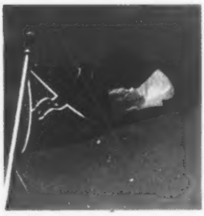
State Symbols

State Coat of Arms



The committee to design a Coat of Arms was appointed by legislative action February 7, 1894, and the design proposed by that committee was accepted and became the official Coat of Arms. The committee recommended for the Coat of Arms a "Shield in color blue, with an eagle upon it with extended pinions, holding in the right talon a palm branch and a bundle of arrows in the left talon, with the word 'Mississippi' above the eagle; the lettering on the shield and the eagle to be in gold; below the shield two branches of the cotton stalk, saltierwise, as in submitted design, and a scroll below extending upward and on each side three-fourths of the length of the shield; upon the scroll, which is to be red, the motto be printed in gold letters upon white spaces, as in design accompanying, the motto to be—"VIRTUTE et ARMIS."

State Flag



The committee to design a State Flag was appointed by legislative action February 7, 1894, and provided that the flag reported by the committee should become the official flag. The committee recommended for the flag "one with width two-thirds of its length; with the union square, in width two-thirds of the width of the flag; the ground of the union to be red and a broad blue saltier thereon, bordered with white and emblazoned with thirteen (13) mullets or five-pointed stars, corresponding with the number of the original States of the Union; the field to be divided into three bars of equal width, the upper one blue, the center one white, and the lower one extending the whole length of the flag, red—the national colors; the staff surmounted with a spear-head and a battle-axe below; the flag to be fringed with gold, and the staff gilded with gold." The Canton Corner is a replica of the Confederate Battle Flag.

Everyday Flag Etiquette

General Display

It is the universal custom to display the flag only from sunrise to sunset on buildings and on stationary flagstaffs in the open. However, when a patriotic effect is desired, the flag may be displayed 24 hours a day if properly illuminated during the hours of darkness.

1. When displayed horizontally or vertically against a wall, the union should be uppermost and to the flag's own right, that is, to the observer's left. When displayed in a window, the flag should be displayed in the same way, with the union or blue field to the left of the observer in the street.

   No other flag or pennant should be placed above, or if on the same level, to the right of the flag of the United States of America, except during church services conducted by naval chaplains at sea for personnel of the Navy when the church pennant may be flown above the flag.

   No person shall display the flag of the United Nations or any other national or international flag equal, above, or in a position of superior prominence or honor to, or in place of, the flag of the United States at any place within the United States or any territory or possession thereof: Provided, that nothing in this section shall make unlawful the continuance of the practice heretofore followed of displaying the flag of the United Nations in a position of superior prominence or honor, and other national flags in positions of equal prominence or honor, with that of the flag of the United States at the headquarters of the United Nations.

2. When flags of states, cities, or localities, or pennants of societies are flown on the same halyard with the flag of the United States, the latter should always be at the peak.

3. When the flags are flown from adjacent staffs, the flag of the United States should be hoisted first and lowered last. No such flag or pennant may be placed above the flag of the United States or to the United States flag's right.

4. The flag of the United States of America, when it is displayed with another flag against a wall from crossed staffs, should be on the right, the flag's own right, and its staff should be in front of the staff of the other flag.

5. The flag of the United States of America should be at the center and at the highest point of the group when a number of flags of states or localities or pennants of societies are grouped and displayed from staffs.

6. When flags of two or more nations are displayed, they are to be flown from separate staffs of the same height. The flags should be of approximately equal size. International usage forbids the display of the flag of one nation above that of another nation in time of peace.

7. When used on a speaker's platform, the flag, if displayed flat, should be displayed above and behind the speaker. When displayed from a staff in a church or public auditorium, the flag of the United States of America should hold the position of superior prominence, in advance of the audience, and in the position of honor at the clergyman's or speaker's right as he faces the audience. Any other flag so displayed should be placed on the left of the clergyman or speaker or the right of the audience.

Half-Staff

The flag, when flown at half-staff, should be first hoisted to the peak for an instant and then lowered to the half-staff position. The flag should be again raised to the peak before it is lowered for the day. On Memorial Day the flag should be displayed at half-staff until noon only, then raised to the top of the staff. By order of the President, the flag shall be flown at half-staff upon the death of principal figures of the United States Government and the Governor of a State, territory or possession, as a mark of respect to their memory. In the event of the death of other officials or foreign dignitaries, the flag is to be displayed at half-staff according to Presidential instructions or orders, or in accordance with recognized customs or practices not inconsistent with law.

In the event of the death of a present or former official of the government of any State, territory or possession of the United States, the Governor of that State, territory or possession may proclaim that the National flag may be flown at half-staff.

Overview of Executive Branch

The executive branch has the duty and responsibility of carrying out, or "executing," the governmental programs and policies established by law. The chief executive power of the state is vested in the Governor. The Governor serves a term of four years and may succeed himself for an additional term in office. The Governor must be at least 30 years of age, a United States citizen for 20 years, and a resident of the state for five years preceding the day of election.

In addition to the Governor, the Mississippi Constitution makes provision for a Lieutenant Governor, a Secretary of State, a State Auditor, a State Treasurer, and an Attorney General. The chief function of the Lieutenant Governor is to act as president of the Senate. The qualifications for Lieutenant Governor are the same as for Governor. The Secretary of State, the State Auditor, and the State Treasurer must be at least 25 years of age and a resident of the state for five years preceding the day of election. The Attorney General must be at least 26 years of age, a practicing attorney for five years, and a resident of the state for five years preceding the day of election.

The state Legislature has made provision by authority of the state Constitution for a Public Service Commission and a Transportation Commission, both of which are made up of three commissioners, one elected from each of the state's Supreme Court districts. In addition, a Commissioner of Insurance and a Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce were authorized by the Legislature and are chief executive officers of their respective departments.

The qualifications for the Commissioner of Insurance and the Commissioner of Agriculture and Commerce are the same as for the Secretary of State. Qualifications for Public Service Commissioners are also the same, with the additional requirement that they be resident electors of their Supreme Court districts. Transportation Commissioners need only be resident electors of the Supreme Court districts from which they are elected. All of the above officers are elected to four-year terms and may succeed themselves in office.

In addition to the elected executive officers mentioned, there are a number of officers appointed by the Governor. Among those are the Adjutant General, the Commissioner of Public Safety, and the chief executive officers of the departments of Banking and Consumer Finance, Economic and Community Development, and Environmental Quality, and of the Tax Commission.

The Governor also appoints members to numerous executive and administrative boards and commissions who in turn appoint the executive officers of the departments that they govern. Some of these boards and departments are the Department of Finance and Administration, Personnel Board, Department of Health, Department of Corrections, and Department of Education. The state Superintendent of Education, formerly an elected officer, is appointed by the State Board of Education.

Dick Molpus

Dick Molpus was running a lumber manufacturing operation in Neshoba and Scott counties when Governor William Winter asked him to be the first executive staff appointment in his administration in 1980.

At the end of Governor Winter's term in 1983, Molpus successfully ran for Secretary of State. He was re-elected in 1987 and 1991 by more than 80 percent of the vote. As Secretary of State, Dick Molpus has reshaped that office and gained recognition from his peers, which crystallized in 1991 by his election as president of the National Association of Secretaries of State.

Molpus saw the need to modernize his office and make it self-supporting, rather than a financial drain on the taxpayers. Since 1986, the Secretary of State's Office not only has been self-supporting, but has given the state treasury more than $7 million. 1993's profit was a record $1.6 million. Making a profit has come while the office has automated and improved its services to customers inside and outside of Mississippi.

During Molpus' first year in office, he launched a program to clean-up the scandalous leasing of 16th Section school lands for pennies an acre. Today, leases on more than 640,000 acres of school lands have been renegotiated to fair market value—bringing in millions of dollars every year for Mississippi's school children and reducing the tax burden required to support our schools.

Molpus also began major reforms for state elections and business laws. He successfully led a coalition to win passage of mail-in voter registration, making Mississippi the 27th state to have it. Now, he continues to lead statewide efforts to force lobbyists to fully explain how they spend money to lobby public officials. Molpus—one of the architects of Mississippi's Education Reform Act—supports the public schools and believes in providing quality educations for all Mississippi's school children. He is a founder of Parents for Public Schools in Jackson, a group that has chapters throughout America and has received national attention for its efforts to revitalize this country's public schools.

A native of Philadelphia, Molpus is a graduate of the University of Mississippi. He and his wife, the former Sally Nash of Corinth, have a 14-year-old daughter and 10-year-old son.

Steve Patterson

After public school graduation, Steve Patterson pursued his passion for politics by obtaining a bachelor of science degree in political science. He obtained the master of arts degree in political science from The University of Mississippi. His master's thesis, Mississippi's Four Constitutions: a Study of Political Response to Societal Change, is widely regarded as a definitive source document for Mississippi constitutional study. He was an instructor in the Political Science Department at Ole Miss as a graduate student.

Steve Patterson observed federal government in action as a young aide to former Senator John C. Stennis. From there, he developed a knowledge of infrastructure operation as Executive Director of the Tombigbee River Valley Water Management District, the local sponsor of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. He also served on the Board of Directors of the Mississippi Rivers and Harbors Association and as chairman of the Northeast Mississippi Resource Conservation and Development District.

Steve Patterson entered the world of finance as an investment banker with Paine Webber for the southeastern region of the United States. He later founded The Enterprise Group, a financial advisory firm representing counties, cities, public hospitals and corporate clients and served as its chairman of the board. As a private businessman with this company, he was instrumental in saving nearly $15 million in government monies. It was the recognition that such savings could be realized that planted the seed which eventually grew into Patterson's successful bid for the Office of State Auditor.

Steve Patterson has served as an aide and advisor to Governor William Winter and Governor Bill Allain. He was also a member of the prestigious Southern Growth Policies Board and the Governor's Constitutional Study Committee.

The establishment of the new Performance Audit Division of the State Auditor's Office is substance presenting Patterson's idea that not only can government be made to conform to rules, but government can also be made to function more efficiently and effectively while doing so.

A native of New Albany, Patterson holds affiliations with the Kiawanis Club and Pi Sigma Alpha, the national political science honor society. A Presbyterian, he is married to the former Debbie Ezell of Petal. They are the parents of two sons, Beau and John Calvin.

After graduation from Tchula High School, he received his Bachelor's Degree and Juris Doctor Degree from the University of Mississippi. Bennett served two years active duty in the U.S. Army as a Captain, and afterward was appointed Executive Secretary of the Mississippi Crime Commission, forerunner of the Governor's Office of Criminal Justice. He then served as Assistant District Attorney for Hinds and Yazoo counties and practiced law in Jackson. For seven years he was Assistant Attorney General for the State of Mississippi. As the first Director of the State's Office of Consumer Protection, Bennett took action which returned millions of dollars to citizens who had been defrauded.

In 1980, Bennett served as the Governor's Legislative Assistant, and later as chairman and commissioner of the Workers' Compensation Commission for six years. He worked toward a fair administration of work-related injuries and increased benefits to the disabled.

In 1987, Bennett was elected State Treasurer and began aggressive efforts to return unclaimed property to its rightful owners; to expand the Mississippi Development Bank's authority to assist cities and towns in Mississippi to obtain funds for improving water and sewer facilities; and to increase the earnings on state funds by new investment policies. Overview of Legislative Branch

The Constitution places the legislative authority of Mississippi in a Legislature made up of a Senate and a House of Representatives. The membership is presently limited to 52 Senators and 122 Representatives.

The Legislature is the law-making body of state government. A constitutional provision that no money can be spent from the state's treasury unless the Legislature passes a law to do so is the basis of the Legislature's "power of the purse." The sole power of impeachment is vested in the House of Representatives, with the power to try impeachments vested in the Senate.

A state Representative must be at least 21 years of age, and a state Senator at least 25 years of age at the time he or she takes office. The other qualifications for the office of Representative are: resident citizen of the state for four years and of the county for two years immediately preceding the election and a qualified elector of the state. The other qualifications for the office of Senator are: resident of the district to be represented for two years and a qualified elector of the state for four years.

Representatives and Senators are elected to four-year terms. The terms of all Legislators expire every four years.

The presiding officer of the House of Representatives is the Speaker of the House, a state Representative who is elected to the position by House members. The Senate's presiding officer is the Lieutenant Governor, who is the president of the Senate.

Legislators are administered an oath of office on the first day of the regular session of the year following their election. The Constitution requires the Legislature to convene yearly on the Tuesday after the first Monday in January.

During each Regular Session, the Legislature can be expected to send more than 500 bills to the Governor to be signed into law. Frequently, more than one-fourth of those are money bills (appropriations) to finance state government. As many as four to five times the number of bills that actually become laws will have been introduced for legislative consideration during each year.

The Constitution stipulates that bills may originate in either chamber of the Legislature and empowers each chamber to determine its own rules of procedure, except that each is prohibited from adjourning for more than three days without the consent of the other or from adjourning to another place other than where the two chambers are sitting.

Presently each body adopts its own rules; joint rules are also adopted to govern legislative procedures that affect the orderly flow of bills between the two houses. Legislative sessions last 90 days each year except during the first year of a new term when they last 125 days. A special session may be called whenever the Governor deems it necessary. The periods between legislative sessions are devoted to legislative studies by the members who work in committees to prepare bills for consideration in the upcoming session.

Legislative accountability to the people of Mississippi is provided by publication of all the Legislature's proceedings in journals. As well, the Constitution requires that the doors of each House shall be open "except in cases which may require secrecy."

Duties

He shall be elected by the members of the House for a term of four years, but shall be limited to two terms. He is responsible for preserving order and decorum in the House. All committees of the House, except the Rules Committee and the Management Committee, are appointed by the Speaker unless otherwise specifically directed by the House. He serves as an ex-officio member of the Rules Committee and the Management Committee.*

All questions on which the House votes are put by the Speaker, and he shall determine if the proposition has carried. Besides these duties, he is a member and alternating Chairman of the Joint Legislative Budget Committee.

Tim Ford

Speaker Pro Tempore

Duties

He shall be elected by the members of the House for a term of four years, but no person may serve as Speaker Pro Tempore for more than ten years. He serves as an ex-officio Chairman of the House Management Committee and as an ex-officio member of the House Rules Committee.

*Appropriations, revenue, and local and private bills, and bills to restore suffrage are excluded from these deadlines. For purposes of the deadlines herein set forth, the term "revenue bills" shall include only those bills whose primary purpose is to increase or decrease taxes or to authorize the issuance of bonds or the borrowing of money. Bills which are primarily for regulatory purposes which have revenue provisions included shall not be considered as revenue bills for deadline purposes. The deletion from a bill of the features which made it a revenue bill shall render the bill a general bill for deadline purposes.

Initial conference reports on all bills must be filed with the Secretary/Clerk no later than the time of adjournment on the day prior to being called up and considered. Appropriation bills which actually appropriate money and are recommitted for further conference are excluded from the requirement that the subsequent conference report be filed and lay on table one (1) day before being considered; however, original action must be taken on all appropriations conference reports by 2:00 p.m. on the 84th/119th day and subsequent reports must be filed no later than 6:00 p.m.

Requests for general bills and constitutional amendments to be drafted must be made no later than 6:00 p.m. on the 11th/49th day. The Rules Committee of the House or Senate, as the case may be, may authorize any member of its respective house to make requests, for one or more general bills or constitutional amendments to be drafted, after the expiration of the deadline for making such drafting requests but before the deadline for introduction of bills and constitutional amendments, upon a determination by the Rules Committee that such drafting requests are in response to conditions of an emergency nature arising subsequent to the deadline for making requests for general bills and constitutional amendments to be drafted.

Whenever the word "day" appears in this rule, it shall mean calendar day.

The above schedule shall not be deviated from except by the passage of a concurrent resolution adopted by a vote of two-thirds (2/3) of the membership of the House and Senate present and voting.

Highlights on How a Bill Becomes a Law

Drafting and Introduction

A bill must first be drafted in proper form. Legislative research and drafting offices are operated on a year-round basis in both the House and the Senate to assist the members with the necessary research and legal work involved in drafting bills in correct form.

Since the advent of annual sessions, a system of pre-filing has been instituted in both Houses. This means that bills may be written and introduced on an unofficial basis in the interim between sessions. For all practical purposes, the pre-filed bills are treated in the same manner as bills introduced when the Legislature is actually in session. At the time a member signifies that a bill is to be filed, it is placed on the Speaker's/President's desk for referral to Committee and, after referral, is given a number which it will retain throughout the legislative process. When the session convenes, the pre-filed bills are introduced officially into the records. Bills introduced after the session convenes are dropped into the "hopper" at the Clerk's/Secretary's desk. Bills must be typewritten on legal-size paper, double-spaced, with the title and name of author or authors on the outside and must be introduced in original form.

Referred to Committee

Each bill is referred to one or more of the standing committees in the House or Senate for study and recommendation. In the regular order of business, the bills are read by title and number, and the committee to which it has been referred is announced. All bills are listed on a daily introduction list, entered in the bill docket and committee books, and copies are reproduced. The bill itself is placed in a jacket and put into the committee box.

Reported by Committee

The committee to which a bill has been referred reports its recommendations to the House or Senate — it may report the bill "Do Pass," "Do Pass As Amended," "Committee Substitute Do Pass," or it may report the bill "Do Not Pass," which has the effect of killing the bill unless a Minority Report is filed within three days by one or more of the members of the committee who were present at the meeting at which the bill was reported.

If a bill has not been reported by a committee after reference, a motion to withdraw the bill may be filed.

When a bill has been reported favorably by a committee, it is placed on the calendar for House or Senate action. Separate divisions of the calendar are kept for bills reported by the appropriations, revenue, and local and private committees. Appropriations and Revenue bills have precedence over bills on the General Calendar.

The Legislature operates under a system of deadlines which set the limits of time in which bills may be introduced, reported from Committee, acted upon originally in each House, amendments considered from other House, and Conference Reports adopted. The deadlines are for the purpose of assuring an orderly flow of legislative action within the 90-day constitutional limitation of sessions. The first session of each administration has a limitation of 125 days and the deadlines are adjusted for the additional time.

Consideration by House/Senate

When a bill comes up in its regular order on the calendar, it is usually called up and handled by the Chairman of the committee to which it has been referred. The bill is read and debated by the House or Senate and, at this time, amendments may be proposed and either adopted or rejected. Other action is also possible and in order at this time - the bill may be recommitted to the committee for further study, it may be laid on the table, subject to call, it may be set for special order, or postponed to another date for action. An amendment to strike all after the enacting clause, if adopted, would kill the bill, or if a motion carried to indefinitely postpone the bill, it would be dead.

The Vote

A quorum must be present for the vote on final passage of any measure. Bills of a general nature require a majority of those present and voting for passage; appropriation bills require a majority of the elected membership, revenue bills require a three-fifths majority of those present and voting; constitutional amendments require a two-thirds majority of those present and voting; bills restoring suffrage or bills to grant a donation or gratuity to any person require two-thirds of the elected membership. Adoption of Conference Reports or concurrence in Senate or House amendments require the same vote as was required for original passage of the bill. After passage of a bill, it is subject to reconsideration for one whole legislative day. After the time has passed for reconsideration, any amendments that were adopted are engrossed into the bill, and it is sent to the other House.

House/Senate Action

When a bill reaches the other House, it goes through the same process of referral to Committee, report by Committee, and floor action. If a bill passes the other House without amendment, it is returned to the House of origin, enrolled, signed by the Speaker and the Lieutenant Governor, and presented to the Governor. If the other House adopts amendments to the bill, the bill and the accompanying amendments are returned to the House of origin, and the bill is placed on the calendar for concurrence or non-concurrence in the amendments of the other House. Should one House concur, the other is notified, the bill is engrossed, enrolled, and presented to the Governor. If one House declines to concur in the amendments of the other, it may request a conference to work out the differences between the two Houses. A conference committee is composed of three members from each House, and if the report of the conference committee is adopted by both Houses, the bill is engrossed, enrolled, and presented to the Governor.

Governor's Action

The Governor must either approve a bill or return it with objections to the House of its origin within five days (Sundays excepted) or it becomes law without his signature. (If the Legislature adjourns before the five days have expired, the Governor then has 15 days for consideration of the bill.) When a bill has been vetoed, the objections of the Governor are spread at large upon the Journal, it is reconsidered, and if two-thirds of those present and voting vote in favor of the bill, it is forwarded to the other House. If two-thirds of that House vote in favor of its passage over the Governor's veto, the bill then becomes a law.

The above steps in the passage of a bill are a simplified example of the parliamentary procedure involved in legislation. The processes seem very complex, but a knowledge of the rules of procedure and actual experience in observing a legislature in action help in understanding that the rules and procedures are to provide thorough study and debate of measures before they become law.

Overview of Mississippi Court System

Judicial Branch—Appellate Court

The Supreme Court is the State's court of last resort. There is no intermediate appellate court. The Supreme Court hears appeals from the two courts of general jurisdiction, i.e., Circuit and Chancery Courts. It also hears direct appeals from the County Courts in cases of eminent domain and those felony cases transferred by the Circuit Court to the County Court for trial. Cases originating in Justice and Municipal Courts, which have been appealed through the Circuit Courts, can only be appealed to the Supreme Court when a constitutional question is involved and then only when the appeal is allowed by a Supreme or Circuit Court judge. The court has the power to issue extraordinary writs. Composed of nine justices, the Court may sit in panels of three or en banc.

Most appeals from limited jurisdiction courts are heard in the Circuit or Chancery courts. In 17 counties where County Courts exist, appeals from the Justice and Municipal Courts are heard in those courts rather than the Circuit Court.

Trial Courts

Mississippi's trial court system consists of two general jurisdiction courts, i.e., Circuit and Chancery Courts, and four limited jurisdiction courts, i.e., County, Family, Justice, and Municipal Courts.

Circuit Courts have original jurisdiction over all civil and criminal matters, not vested exclusively in another court or courts. Circuit judges have the power to issue extraordinary writs. There are no formal provisions for chief judges in the multi-judge districts.

Chancery Courts have original jurisdiction over matters involving equity, divorce, alimony, probate, guardianship, and sanity matters. If a County Court has not been established, the Chancery Courts have exclusive jurisdiction over juvenile matters. The Courts' jurisdiction over equity matters involving less than $10,000 is concurrent with County Courts. These Courts may also issue extraordinary writs.

Seventeen of the 82 counties have established County Courts. These Courts have exclusive jurisdiction over matters involving eminent domain, partition of personal property, and unlawful entry and detainer. They have concurrent jurisdiction with Circuit and Justice Courts and preliminary hearings in felony cases. If transferred by the Circuit Courts, the County Courts may also adjudicate certain noncapital felony cases. These Courts have jurisdiction over juvenile matters, except in Harrison County where a Family Court has been established.

There is only one Family Court in the State. It is located in Gulfport in Harrison County. The Court has countywide exclusive jurisdiction over juveniles and also adults charged with contributing to the neglect or delinquency of a juvenile.

Justice Courts have exclusive civil jurisdication over all matters involving up to $1000. These Courts conduct preliminary hearings in felony cases and have concurrent jurisdiction with Circuit Courts over all criminal matters, where the punishment does not exceed a fine and sentence to the county jail. Each county is divided into Justice Court districts, dependent in number upon population.

Municipal Courts have exclusive jurisdiction over ordinance violations. They also serve as committing courts for state law violations committed in the county but outside the city limits, and for felonies committed inside the city limits. Under certain conditions, some of these Courts also exercise juvenile jurisdiction.

The trial courts of the State are not subject to the administrative or supervisory authority of the Supreme Court. There are no provisions in the statutes or court rules requiring multi-judge districts to designate a chief justice.

Judiciary

Judges of the Supreme, Circuit, Chancery, County, and Family Courts must be attorneys with at least five years of law experience. They must also fulfill certain age and residency requirements. A Justice Court judge must be a county resident for at least two years, and have a high school diploma. If he is not an attorney, he must attend an 18 hour seminar conducted by the Attorney General.

Depending upon the population and size of the county, a Municipal Court judge must be a qualified elector of the county and a lawyer; or a Justice Court judge whose district lies in whole or in part in the municipality; or the mayor or mayor pro tempore of the city.

All judges, except those in Municipal Courts, are elected on partisan ballots. Municipal Court judges are appointed by the municipal governing body.

Supreme Court justices serve eight year terms. All other judges, except those in Municipal Courts, serve four year terms. The term of office for Municipal Court judges is locally determined.

Thad Cochran

Thad Cochran is serving his third term in the United States Senate from the state of Mississippi. He was re-elected without opposition in 1990.

Senator Cochran is chairman of the Senate Republican Conference, which places him third in the Senate GOP leadership ranks.

He is a member of the Committees on Appropriations, Agriculture and Forestry, Labor and Human Resources and Indian Affairs.

Senator Cochran was born on December 7, 1937, in Pontotoc, Mississippi. He was educated in the public schools of Mississippi and at the University of Mississippi. He studied international law for a year at the University of Dublin, Ireland, under a Rotary Foundation Fellowship. He has been awarded honorary degrees from Mississippi College, Kentucky Wesleyan College, Blue Mountain College and the University of Richmond.

He served as an officer in the U. S. Navy. He practiced law for seven years and was President of the Young Lawyers Division of the Mississippi Bar Association. Elected to the U. S. House of Representatives in his first race for public office in 1972, he served six years before his election to the Senate in 1978.

He is married to the former Rose Clayton of New Albany, Mississippi, and they have two children, Clayton and Kate.

United States Senator

Trent Lott

After rising to the number two Republican leadership position in the House of Representatives, Trent Lott of Mississippi was elected to the U.S. Senate.

Lott was named chairman of the Senate Republican Committee on Committees for the 102nd Congress. As a chairman of the Committee which determines committee assignments for all Republican Senators, Lott has played a major role in shaping the face of the Senate.

That appointment was Lott's second leadership position during his tenure in the Senate. His first was being named to the non-partisan Select Committee on Ethics in 1988, a position that he still holds. Lott's years as a member of the Ethics Committee, which investigates alleged misconduct by members of employees of the Senate, have been marked as the busiest in the Committee's history.

In the 101st Congress, Senator Lott also served on the Senate's Committee on Armed Service; Committee on Commerce, Science and Transportation; and Committee on the Budget — all committees that have allowed him to both look after Mississippi's interests in Washington and play a role in a variety of national concerns.

Senator Lott's public service career began in 1968 when he became the administrative assistant to his predecessor, Congressman William M. Colmer. Lott was elected to his first term in the House of Representatives in 1972 and was re-elected seven times.

Born October 9, 1941, in Grenada County, Mississippi, Lott is the son of a farmer-turned-shipyard worker and a school teacher. The family moved to Pascagoula early in his life. Lott is married to the former Tricia Thompson of Pascagoula, and they have a son, Chet, and a daughter, Tyler.

First District

Jamie L. Whitten

Jamie L. Whitten was born and reared in Tallahatchie County, Mississippi, from the historic community of Cascilla. He was educated at the University of Mississippi, where he studied business, science and commerce in preparation for Law School.

At the suggestion of the Mississippi Attorney General from his hometown, Whitten took the State Bar Exam to practice law and made the highest grade. He then joined the firm of Denman, Breland and Whitten as the junior partner.

At the age of 23, Whitten ran for District Attorney and was elected to serve Mississippi's 17th District consisting of Tallahatchie, Yalobusha, Panola, Tate and DeSoto counties. Voters endorsed him twice, the last time without opposition.

Whitten was elected to Congress on November 4, 1941. On January 6, 1992, Congressman Whitten broke the record for the longest service to the House of Representatives. Congressman Whitten is the dean of the U.S. Congress, having been elected shortly before Pearl Harbor and America's entry into World War II.

With a national viewpoint, Congressman Whitten has always worked for the protection and development of the real wealth of this country—its physical resources.

Whitten was elected chairman of the influential Committee on Appropriations by his colleagues seven times. A portrait of Chairman Whitten, donated by the people of Mississippi, was presented to the House of Representatives and hangs in the office of the Chairman of the Appropriations Committee in the U.S. Capitol.

Whitten has served with 11 presidents beginning with Franklin D. Roosevelt through Bill Clinton. His service has earned him such prestigious honors as Watch Dog of the Treasury, Minute Man Hall of Fame, numerous 4-H and FFA honors, REA National Award, the American Legion Award, the Extension Service Award, special recognition from community and senior colleges, as well as vocational education, and many other citations.

Whitten is married to the former Rebecca Thompson, a native of Saltillo and a former school teacher. They have two children, Beverly and Jamie, Jr.

Second District

Bennie G. Thompson

Bennie G. Thompson is a native of Bolton, educated in the Hinds County public schools. He received his bachelor of arts degree in political science from Tougaloo College, a master of science in educational administration from Jackson State University, and has done extensive doctorate coursework at the University of Southern Mississippi.

Congressman Thompson began his professional career as a Mississippi public school educator, but after a short stint entered the political sphere by being elected alderman in the Town of Bolton. He served as alderman from 1969-1973. In 1973, he was elected the town's mayor and continued in that position until 1979, when he was elected to the Hinds County Board of Supervisors. He served as a supervisor until 1993, when he won a special election to the U.S. House of Representatives from the Second Congressional District, receiving more than 55 percent of the vote.

Thompson has been active in civic, community, and professional organizations. He is a member of the Tougaloo College Board of Trustees and a member of the board of directors for the Southern Regional Council and the Housing Assistance Council. The congressman also has been a member of the Democratic National Committee.

During the 103rd Congress, Thompson is serving on three major House committees — Agriculture, where he is on the subcommittee on environment, credit and rural development, and the subcommittee on general farm commodities; Merchant Marine and Fisheries, where he is a member of the subcommittee on environment and national resources, and the subcommittee on merchant marine; and Small Business.

Thompson is married to the former London Johnson of Mound Bayou and they have one daughter.

NOTE: Mike Espy of Madison served as Second District congressman until a special election in the spring of 1993. Espy resigned early in 1993 to become the Clinton Administration's secretary of agriculture.

United States Congressman

Third District

G. V. (Sonny) Montgomery

Gillespie V. (Sonny) Montgomery was born in Meridian, Mississippi. He was educated in the Meridian Public Schools; the McCallie School in Chattanooga, Tennessee; and Mississippi State University where he received a B.S. Degree. He is a retired Major General in the Mississippi National Guard, having served more than 35 years in the military.

He is a member of the Episcopal Church, Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion, 40 & 8, Shrine, Masons, Scottish Rite and York Rite. He is past president of the Mississippi Heart Association, the Mississippi State University Alumni Association and Mississippi National Guard Association.

Prior to being elected to Congress, he owned and operated Montgomery Insurance Agency in Meridian. He was elected to the Mississippi State Senate in 1956, where he served for 10 years with a perfect attendance record. One of his major accomplishments in the Mississippi Legislature was the introduction and enactment of legislation creating the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television. He was first elected to the U. S. House of Representatives in November 1966 and was re-elected to his 14th term in November 1992. In 1980, he was instrumental in organizing the Conservative Democratic Forum.

Now serving his 13th term on the House Veterans Affairs Committee, he assumed the chairmanship of the full committee in 1981 and was re-elected chairman for the 103rd Congress. He also serves as chairman of the Hospitals and Health Care Subcommittee. Following 11 terms on the Armed Services Committee, he has risen to ranking member of both the Military Personnel and Compensation Subcommittee, and the Military Installations and Facilities Subcommittee. In the 98th Congress, he introduced and guided to passage a peacetime G.I. education bill which will provide incentives for both recruitment and retention of qualified young men and women for the all-volunteer armed forces.

Congressman Montgomery was asked to be the first member of Congress to lead the House of Representatives in the Pledge of Allegiance when it became a permanent part of daily operations in the House on September 13, 1988. Montgomery served as president of the Congressional Prayer Breakfast Group in 1970.

United States Congressman

Fourth District

Mike Parker

Mike Parker was elected to the U. S. House of Representatives in November 1988. As Representative for the Fourth Congressional District, which is composed of Southwest and portions of Central Mississippi, Parker has committed himself to addressing the concerns of rural America in Washington.

Parker's dual focus since entering Congress in January 1989 has been to provide superior constituent services and to promote economic development for the Fourth District. He serves on the Public Works and Transportation Committee, a vital assignment for addressing the district's infrastructural needs, and on the House Budget Committee, where he is able to stress his conviction that a sound America must be based in fiscal restraint and responsibility.

Parker was born in Laurel, Mississippi, on October 31, 1949. He grew up in Meadville, in Franklin County, where he graduated from Franklin High School in 1967. He completed his undergraduate work at William Carey College in Hattiesburg in 1970, did postgraduate work at the University of Southern Mississippi and then entered a career in business. Parker has lived in Brookhaven, Mississippi since 1978, where he owns several small businesses. He and his wife, the former Rosemary Prather, have three children, Adrian, Marisa and Thomas. They attend the Brookhaven Public Schools.

Fifth District

Gene Taylor

Gene Taylor, of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, was elected to fill an unexpired term in a 1989 special election. Elected to his first full term as Congressman in November of 1990, Taylor scored an impressive 81 to 19 percent win over his opponent.

Taylor, a former sales representative for Stone Container Corporation, began his political career on the Bay St. Louis City Council in 1981. Two years later, voters sent him to the Mississippi State Senate, where he was re-elected in 1987 without opposition.

Representing a congressional district that stretches from the Piney Woods of Forrest and Greene counties to the Gulf Coast beaches, Taylor supports a strong national defense, education and is a forceful advocate of Mississippi's maritime interests.

A member of the Armed Services Committee and the Seapower and Procurement Subcommittees, Taylor was instrumental in keeping the U. S. Navy's Pascagoula Homeport on track. Through the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee, he has lobbied for America to become competitive in the lucrative cruise ship and commercial shipbuilding industries. As a member of the House Armed Services Committee, Taylor has pushed to reverse the wholesale giveaway of surplus heavy construction equipment by the Department of Defense to foreign governments.

Taylor went on record against wasteful government spending during his first month in office. He voted against a legislative pay raise and when it passed, donated his annual salary increase to fund student scholarships. He has also lead the charge to eliminate chauffeured limousine service for the House Party Whips.

A member of the Coast Guard and Navigation Subcommittee of the Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee of the House, Taylor is one of the only two Subcommittee members who has hands-on experience in the Coast Guard. A 1976 political science and history graduate of Tulane University in New Orleans, Taylor served in the U. S. Coast Guard Reserve from 1971 to 1984. He was the skipper of a search and rescue boat for 10 years and received the Commandant's Letter of Commendation for fire fighting and a letter of Commendation for saving the life of a crew member.

Taylor was born in 1953 in New Orleans, Louisiana. He is married to the former Margaret Gordon of Bay St. Louis. They have three children, Sarah, Emily and Gary.

Public Education

For more than a decade, the State of Mississippi has been engaged in a quiet revolution, systematically rethinking and restructuring the manner in which we are educating the next generation of Mississippians. The goal: to give our young people the skills required to be competitive in the nation's and, indeed, the world's workforce as we enter the next century.

Guided by the tenets of the historic 1982 Education Reform Act, Mississippi has begun to make dramatic changes in the manner in which schools are operated. From the appointments of a new State Board of Education and State Superintendent, all of which previously were elected positions, to the continuous development of five-year plans at both the district and state levels, we have addressed almost every facet of the educational experience. Under the direction of the Board and the Superintendent, the State Department of Education has provided assistance to local districts as they have instituted these sweeping changes.

Some of the changes have emphasized the importance of early childhood education. The establishment of full-day public school kindergartens and the addition of teaching assistants in the primary grades reflect this focus. Other efforts are directed toward ensuring that students enroll and remain in school, manifested in compulsory attendance provisions and dropout prevention programs.

Among the most far-reaching of changes are processes for improving the quality of what takes place in the classroom and providing for more accountability. New standards for teacher certification and professional development for administrators, teachers, and staff along with new procedures for school accreditation are geared toward evaluating schools' and personnel performance and giving directions for addressing problem areas.

Reforms have also been aimed at raising the standards for measuring student achievement and improving student performance on nationally standardized tests. More exacting requirements for graduation, including passing a functional literacy examination, have been set. A State Department-developed curriculum incorporating performance objectives is now the basis for instruction statewide. Instructional management programs have introduced scope and sequence criteria to the curriculum so that performance can be more uniformly evaluated. Statewide competency testing in grades 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, and 11, along with a tracking system has helped us identify children's weaknesses and target remediation efforts.

In 1988, the Mississippi Legislature made an unprecedented commitment to strengthening the educational assets of the state by boosting teachers' salaries by 19 percent over a two-year period, bringing them in line with the regional average. Further, the Legislature increased funding for Mississippi's universities by 20 percent — the largest dollar increase in the history of higher education in Mississippi and, over a two-year period, the largest percentage increase in the nation.

Mississippi's leaders have demonstrated their belief in the wisdom of investing in human capital by dedicating a significant portion of the state's budget to education — 65 percent of the general fund expenditures. For any state in the nation such an investment would be noteworthy. But for a state such as Mississippi, whose economic resources are limited, it represents a vision of perception and purpose. It is irrefutable evidence of the belief that it is smart business to prepare for the future by making investments that have a high degree of certainty for paying good returns.

The State Board of Education

Following the passage of the Education Reform Act of 1982 and the adoption of the constitutional amendment in 1982, the structure of the State Board of Education changed dramatically. Historically comprised of the State Superintendent of Education, the Attorney General, and the Secretary of State, the board is comprised of nine members appointed by the Governor, the Lieutenant Governor, and the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

Types of School Districts

Basically, there are three types of school districts in Mississippi: county unit, consolidated, and municipal separate. The districts operate as follows:

County Unit

This type of district embraces all territory of a county except the area of any municipal separate school district. The County Board of Education is the governing body. The five-member board is elected by popular vote, one from each supervisor's district, while the County Superintendent is elected countywide by popular vote for a four-year term. The County Board of Supervisors levies local contribution to schools.

Consolidated

This type of district is composed of less than the entire county and has its own board of trustees who are elected by popular vote. These districts act through the County Board of Education and do not levy a district tax for contribution to the minimum foundation program. There are two types of consolidated districts: regular and line. The territory of the regular consolidated district lies within a single county, while the territory of the line consolidated district lies in more than one county. The County Board of Supervisors is the taxing authority. The Consolidated School Board appoints the superintendent.

Municipal Separate

This type of district always includes a city or large town. It may or may not include additional adjacent territory outside the corporate limits. The board of trustees is appointed by the municipality's governing body. These trustees serve for staggered five-year terms. These districts do not participate in countywide school funds, nor do they pay taxes into such funds. The School Board appoints the superintendent. These districts request the governing authority of the municipality to levy funds for the support of the school district.

Types of Teacher Certificates

Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands

History

The origin of Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands in the United States can be traced back to colonial roots. In keeping with English common-law tradition, New England colonists reserved lands in their settlements for the support of public schools. In an early legislative enactment by the government of the United States, the Land Ordinance of 1785, whose author was Thomas Jefferson, that tradition of reserving land for schools was continued.

The Land Ordinance of 1785 was designed to encourage westward expansion. It provided for the survey and sale of the Northwest Territory. The basic unit of measurement in the survey, known as the "rectangular survey system," was the township — an area six miles square.

The township was further divided into 36 sections, each one mile square and identified by numbers. The Land Ordinance of 1785 "reserved the lot No. 16, of every township, for the maintenance of public schools within said township...."

The reserving of land was further entrenched in the Northwest Ordinance of 1789, which provided for the government of the Northwest Territory. That enactment stated: "Religion, morality, and knowledge, being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education shall forever be encouraged."

Those early laws, declared the United States Supreme Court in 1890, created in the states a "binding and perpetual obligation to use the granted lands for the support of public education."

Though the land which became the State of Mississippi was not a part of the Northwest Territory, similar terms and obligations were imposed on that land prior to statehood. Congress established the Mississippi Territory in 1789, which comprised what is now the southern two-thirds of Mississippi and Alabama, and provided that it be governed by the provisions of the Northwest Ordinance of 1789.

Georgia, which claimed the territory under its original charter from England, ceded the land to the United States in 1802, likewise on the condition that statehood would be attained on the same conditions and with the same privileges granted the Northwest Territory under the Northwest Ordinance of 1789.

In 1803, Congress provided for the survey and sale of all lands south of the State of Tennessee, and, as with the Northwest Territory, Section Number 16 in each township was reserved for the support of the public schools. In 1804, the Mississippi Territory was extended northward to the Tennessee line.

Finally, in 1817, the Mississippi Territory was divided by Congress into the State of Mississippi and the Alabama Territory. The Congressional action called for the survey of Mississippi's lands and the reservation of Sixteenth Sections. There remained, however, the question of the Indians.

There were Indians in the area before Georgia received its grants and before the United States came into existence. The Choctaws occupied the land south and west of a line made by extending the boundary line between Coahoma County and Tunica County in a southeasterly direction. The Chickasaws inhabited all parts of the 23 counties north and east of that line.

The Indians were removed from Mississippi — the Choctaws in September of 1830 by the Treaty of Dancing Rabbit Creek, and the Chickasaws in 1832 by the Treaty of Pontotoc Creek. The difference between the two treaties had far-reaching results which are still felt today.

In the Treaty of Pontotoc Creek, the lands of the Chickasaws were ceded to the United States for the purpose of sale by the government to private parties, with the net proceeds going to the Chickasaws. Despite a clause in the Treaty which stated that the lands would be sold "in the same manner and on the same terms as other public lands," the Chickasaw lands were sold with no reservation made for school lands. On the other hand, Sixteenth Sections, subsequent to the Treaty of Dancing Rabbit Creek, were properly reserved in government land sales in the Choctaw area.

Although the word "trust" did not appear in Mississippi state laws governing school lands until passage of the Sixteenth Sections and Lieu Lands Act of 1978, the Mississippi Supreme Court ruled as early as 1895 that Sixteenth Section Land is properly held by the State in trust for public schools. In 1906, State Supreme Court Chief Justice A. H. Whitfield wrote in a majority opinion that the State had violated a "sacred trust" by allowing leaseholders to cut and sell timber on Sixteenth Section Land.

"Sixteenth Sections are set apart as a sacred trust. No greater trust can be committed to any state than that of the education of the children within its borders," Chief Justice Whitfield wrote. "And, if one such trust can be more sacred than another, it is that trust designed to bring home to the doors of the poor children of the commonwealth the means of acquiring a reasonably good education."

That notable theme was codified into state law in the opening sentence of the historic Sixteenth Sections and Lieu Lands Act of 1978, commonly referred to as the "Sixteenth Section Land Reform Act": "Sixteenth section school lands, or lands granted in lieu thereof, constitute property held in trust for the benefit of the public schools and must be treated as such." The Act took the control of School Trust Lands from County Boards of Supervisors, who had been responsible for their management since 1880, and gave it to local Boards of Education under the general supervision of the Secretary of State, custodian of the state's public lands.

Four-Step Program for Trust Management

When Secretary of State Dick Molpus took office in January 1984, he became concerned about the general neglect and abuse which the Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands had been receiving. The abuse had been long-standing. In 1845, then-Governor A. G. Brown, in commenting on the management of revenues from Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands, found that management to range from "a considerable degree of success to inefficiency, criminal negligence, and downright dishonesty."

Over 100 years later, in 1948, a Legislative investigating committee reporting on Sixteenth Section management wrote: "We regret to report there have come to our attention sales of timber at such grossly inadequate prices as to shock the conscience, and, in some instances, as to constitute nothing more nor less than donation of this timber to private individuals." That mismanagement is a "Legacy of Shame."

Prior to 1978, there were instances in which leases on Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands were let for literally pennies per acre and for a one-time lump-sum payment of pennies per acre for 99-year terms. During this period, in some areas relatives and political cronies of elected officials amassed personal wealth at the expense of the school district.

To eradicate the "Legacy of Shame," the Secretary of State formulated a Four-Step Program to enforce strictly the 1978 Reform Act and to require responsible land management from local officials.

1. The first step required the forwarding of documents to the Secretary of State's office, as mandated by law. Those documents included all post-1978 leases, abstracts or certificates of title, and classification forms. The focus of that step was to provide the Secretary of State with a data base for use in overall supervision and management of the School Trust Lands.

2. The second step required that competent appraisals of the School Trust Lands be attached to all leases subsequently executed by local officials. That step ensured that the rentals charged for leases would provide a fair return based upon the value of the land.

3. The third step concerned the review and renegotiation of leases executed by the School Boards for below fair-market rental value since July 1, 1978, when the Boards became responsible for local management of Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands. School Boards have completed renegotiation proceedings in some districts, have hired appraisers to assist in the proceedings in others, and have contracted with consultants and are contacting leaseholders in the remaining districts. On the whole, the progress of the school districts in the execution of the third step has been encouraging.

4. The fourth and final step of the program has included several phases. First, the Boards were requested to review all leases to determine if there were any that might have fallen into the category of what is known as a "toplease" — that is, "the issuance of a new lease on a tract of land where there is already in existence an outstanding lease on the tract which has not been cancelled or otherwise terminated." That practice was principally utilized to avoid the fair-price requirements contained in the 1978 Reform Act.

Second, School Boards were also asked to review leases that were cancelled and shortly thereafter renewed prior to July 1, 1978, and to determine if those lease amounts appear to be unconstitutional donations of public lands. Such cancellation and renewal practices were utilized to circumvent the intent of the Reform Act.

Next, in June 1985, the Secretary of State requested School Boards in those districts where Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands lay within the boundary of a municipality and on which leases were executed for 99-year terms to review those leases for legality and adequacy of the lease rental amount. That effort was designed to avoid perpetuating the "Legacy of Shame" into the next century.

Finally, in the last phase of the fourth step, the Boards were asked to review all pre-1978 leases for adequacy of consideration. Those were the leases executed under the management of the County Boards of Supervisors. With the completion of that phase, expected in the near future, Sixteenth Section School Trust Land management will finally be able to shake the spectre of the "Legacy of Shame."

Results and the Future

The completion of the Four-Step Program is at hand. Where there were once nearly 5,000 Sixteenth Section School Trust Land leases on record at 50 cents per acre or less (more than one-half of all surface leases), few remain.

Of those remaining, the majority are the subject of litigation in state courts. Two dispositive appellate cases await action by the Mississippi Supreme Court, and the Secretary of State's Office in conjunction with the Attorney General's Office has filed amicus or "friend of the court" briefs in order to vigorously enforce the trust.

There is no doubt that the general national and state economies have had an effect on Sixteenth Section School Trust Land revenues. The declines in a variety of industries such as oil and gas, timber, and agriculture have been reflected in the trust. The accompanying graphs reveal the impact these economic forces have had on trust revenues. If renegotiation had not been in full progress to raise the per-acre values received on the questionable leases, the general economic declines would have been catastrophic.

A phase of trust management is now being entered in which efforts will be devoted to development and long-range planning. With the new legislation achieved in 1986 and 1987 and the federal Conservation Reserve Program, the forest land resources are being more fully realized. Full implementation of the state program is conservatively estimated to result in a sustained yield of $16 million annually by the year 2011. The Mississippi Forestry Commission has estimated that an annual rate of return of $41.57 per acre can be expected.

There are long-range plans being developed now for residential subdivisions and commercial developments on the trust lands which will generate millions of dollars in the years to come for public education in Mississippi.

Responsible management of the Sixteenth Section School Trust Lands is working, but we must remain ever vigilant to avoid a repeat of history's past abuses. Responsible management requires strong grass-roots citizen support and honest public officials who are concerned about preserving a vibrant legacy for Mississippi's public schoolchildren.

Chickasaw Cession

The history of the Chickasaw Cession runs from 1832 to the present. A treaty of cession was made and entered into by General John Coffee, who was duly authorized by the President of the United States, and the whole Chickasaw Nation, in General Council assembled at the Council House, on October 20, 1832. The results of this treaty ceded the lands north of a line drawn from the southwest corner of Tunica County to the northwest corner of Lowndes County, embracing in whole or in part 24 counties. Terms of this treaty specified that lands should be surveyed and sold at an agreed upon minimum price, proceeds from which were to go to the Chickasaw Indian Tribe. This treaty is known as the Pontotoc Creek Treaty and was ratified on March 1, 1833, after which the immediate survey was authorized and land sales begun. As news spread that cheap land was available, it appears that buyers came and land sales were rapid, and it also appears that these rapid transactions contributed to the neglecting of Sixteenth Section reservation for the benefit of township schools. This mistake was noted and the United States government, in an effort to correct this error, issued lands in lieu of those sold Sixteenth Sections in various parts of the state, most of which being given from lands the government owned in the Delta counties.

The total amount of land ceded in the Chickasaw Purchase was 6,283,804 acres. The 36th part of this amount was 174,555 acres, being the amount of land given in lieu of those Sixteenth Section sales. A review of the original survey approved February 8, 1838, re-established the north boundary approximately three miles south of the Tennessee line and reduced the amount of acres to 6,071,169.2, but apparently the amount of lieu lands remained constant. The Mississippi Legislature in 1848 authorized a 99-year lease "renewable forever" at a price not less than $6 per acre, the proceeds to be a charge upon the state to be held in trust. The total sale yielded approximately $1,047,330. The 1856 Legislature authorized the use of these funds at 8 percent interest to be paid to the counties in the Chickasaw Cession on a per-acre basis. Loans were made to various railroad companies at an interest of 8 percent. A legislative act in 1863 authorized the railroads to pay their indebtedness in gold, silver, or treasury notes of the state into the State Treasury to be used to defray ordinary state expenses. In so doing, the state bound itself to pay the interest to the various counties in the Chickasaw Cession. The railroad companies eventually defaulted in payments or made settlements with worthless paper resulting in almost a total loss. Since this time, the State Legislature has appropriated monies representing the amount of interest lost due to these investment failures; however, the amount of interest has been reduced to 6 percent since enactment of the 1890 Mississippi Constitution, Section 212. The amount of this Chickasaw Cession school money appropriated by the Legislature annually is $62,191. This amount is disbursed in equal payments on May 1 and November 1. The above amount represents approximately 36 cents per acre per year.

The Legislature recognized the inequity in this situation and appropriated a $1 million increase per year for five years to go to the Chickasaw Cession schools. It has been noted, however, that even at the end of those five years, the schools will be getting only about two-thirds the state average per student.

Concerned residents in the Chickasaw Cession school districts had previously filed suit in federal court alleging, among other grounds, that the state's distribution of the money violated the equal protection clause of the United States Constitution. The United States Supreme Court, in 1986, agreed in a 6-3 majority vote of the Justices.

The Court concluded that the Chickasaw residents should have an opportunity to try to prove their case and thus sent the case back to the United States Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals. A hearing is pending in that court.

E. Harold Fisher, Vice-Chair

Olon E. Ray, Secretary

Mississippi Public Community and Junior Colleges

Districts and Campuses

The creation, establishment, maintenance, and operation of public junior colleges is authorized by Section 37-29-1, Mississippi Code. The extension of curriculum in agricultural high schools and certain municipal school districts to include the freshmen and/or sophomore years of college work was authorized in 1924. In 1928 the Legislature authorized the establishment of junior colleges at these schools and provided that other schools districts and counties could unite in the establishment of junior colleges.

By 1930-31, there were 11 such institutions formed, all in connection with an agricultural high school with a combined enrollment of 1,619 students.

Four additional junior colleges were founded by 1950, and the 15 districts boasted enrollments of 7,984.

In 1987, the Legislature authorized the districts to change their names to community colleges to reflect the broad community base which is inherent in the programs and activities of these institutions.

There are 15 community and junior college districts in 1992-93 operating 33 centers. These include 23 comprehensive campuses and 10 vocational-technical centers, four of which are combination secondary/postsecondary centers.

Enrollments for the fall of 1992 exceeded 71,000 students, with 48% in academic courses, 22% in vo-tech programs, and 30% in continuing education and economic development activities. Approximately 98% are Mississippi residents, 60% female, 33% part-time, and 26% minority.

Mission

The mission of the early junior colleges was to offer academic coursework - the freshman and sophomore years of college work. The mission was broadened during the 1940s when vocational or trade programs of education were upgraded and expanded in line with World War II efforts and the retraining of its veterans.

Statewide missions assigned to junior colleges in the late 1950s and the 1960 decade included nursing education and vocational and technical education.

Sections 37-4-1 and 37-29-1, Mississippi Code, set the basic missions of community and junior colleges as provision of educational services for the people of the state through:

- Academic courses and degrees for transfer to senior colleges
- Academic, technical, and vocational programs for career-oriented goals
- Continuing education for those who desire and can benefit from such opportunities
- Providing leadership in civic, economic, and cultural growth.

Public junior colleges are the delivery system for postsecondary vocational-technical education in Mississippi. Nearly 500 approved courses afford a choice of over 100 unduplicated occupational programs. Programs which reflect needs distributed throughout the state are offered at most junior college centers.

Organization and Governance

The public community/junior college districts are political subdivisions of local rather than state government (Section 37-4-1). Each district is governed by a local board of trustees who "shall be the general government..." and "shall have full power to do all things necessary to the successful operation of the district..." (Section 37-29-67).

Local boards of trustees are comprised of from two to six members from each county in the district. The county superintendent may serve as one member, with other member(s) appointed by the board of supervisors of the county. Trustees serve five-year terms.

Since the establishment of junior colleges in 1928, a state-level coordinating agency has existed. The Junior College Commission and its staff within the State Department of Education, served as the state regulatory agency until 1986. That year the State Board for Community and Junior Colleges was established as an independent state-level coordinating agency for the system of two-year colleges (Section 37-4-3). The State Board is composed of 10 members, appointed by the Governor with the advice and consent of the Senate. Members serve six year terms which expire in staggered years.

The State Board administers state laws and appropriations for the system, sets standards for operation, and approves new programs and attendance centers of the community/junior colleges.

Finance

The 15 community and junior college districts budgeted approximately $212 million for all programs and activities in 1991-92. The educational and general budget of $174 million was derived from state appropriations, direct and indirect - 49.7%; student fees - 25%; county taxes and other local - 19.3%; federal - 6%. Approximately 55.5% of operating funds is spent for direct instructional costs and 76.8% is expended for salaries and benefits of employees. During the 1980 decade, county taxes provided 84% of the funds expended for capital improvements for the community colleges in the aggregate amount of $32,000,000.

Institutions of Higher Learning

The Mississippi Constitution was amended in 1943 to create a Board of Trustees free of gubernatorial control to direct the operations of the state-supported institutions of higher learning. The Board assumed its duties on May 8, 1944.

This constitutional Board of Trustees provides management and control of Mississippi's system of universities. The constitution provides that the Board members be appointed by the Governor with the required approval of the Senate. This public higher education governing board consists of 12 members: one from each of the seven congressional districts as existed in 1944, one from each of the three Supreme Court districts, and two appointed from the state-at-large. Every four years the Governor appoints four members to the Board to serve 12-year terms.

In 1987, the Board appointed its first Commissioner of Higher Education. During the 1988 legislative session, the Mississippi State Legislature changed the name of the Executive Secretary and Director of the Board to the Commissioner of Higher Education.

The Commissioner of Higher Education is responsible for administering the policies and decisions of the Board. A professional staff with the highest level of expertise in academic programs, fiscal matters, information, student financial aid, and physical facilities is under the direction of the Commissioner.

The Board of Trustees meets on the third Thursday of each month, with committee meetings scheduled on the preceding Wednesday. The Board acts upon the recommendations of the 10 standing committees: the Agriculture and Forestry Committee; Athletics Committee; Finance Committee; Instruction, Administration and Policy Committee; Law School Committee; Legal Committee; Medical Affairs Committee; Research Committee; and Student Advisory Committee.

The Board of Trustees of State Institutions of Higher Learning conducts degree-credit courses on 11 established campuses, which include the eight public universities, the University of Mississippi Medical Center, the Mississippi Education and Research Center, and the Gulf Coast Research Laboratory; at six degree-granting off-campus centers; and in extension classes throughout the state. The available programs range from a wide variety of undergraduate disciplines to most professional fields. All eight universities offer master's-level programs, while five have programs at the education specialist level, and five offer doctoral-level teaching and research.

Enrollment figures for the fall term of 1991 at the eight universities including the University of Mississippi Medical Center showed 60,338 students pursuing academic degree credit in the system. On-campus totals were 55,460, enrollment at the University of Mississippi Medical Center was 1,676, and off-campus enrollment was 3,202. There were 2,834 students attending classes at the six degree-granting off-campus centers. Extension classes were offered by five of the universities in different locations, and these classes served 368 persons in the fall of 1991.

The Board of Trustees, through its executive office and professional staff, oversees a budget of almost $1,030,640,552 per year. The Board also has jurisdiction over the physical plants of the institutions it governs. Replacement costs for all the buildings and lands are estimated to be close to $1,075,951,543.

Elections

In Mississippi, every year is an election year. In years when no federal elections are held, Mississippi voters go to the polls to elect state, county, or city officials. Elections for all state offices and most county-level offices are held in years preceding presidential elections.

Municipal elections are conducted in years following presidential elections. With this unique elections cycle, it is no wonder that voting is a topic of perpetual interest, excitement, and enthusiasm among Mississippians.

Qualifications for Registration

(1) A United States citizen

(2) A resident of Mississippi

(3) 18 years of age or older

(4) Not an idiot or insane person

(5) Not convicted in a Mississippi court of murder, rape, bribery, theft, arson, obtaining money or goods under false pretense, perjury, forgery, embezzlement or bigamy, unless having been pardoned or had rights of citizenship restored by the Governor.

Procedure for Registration

In Person:

An individual must register in person with the county registrar (Circuit Clerk) in the county in which the person resides, with any municipal clerk who is a deputy registrar in that county, or with the registrar or deputy registrar at a duly authorized satellite registration location. The registrar shall register applicants at any time during regular office hours. The registrar shall maintain the registration forms as a permanent record. Registration must be accomplished at least 30 days prior to any election in order to be eligible to vote in that election.

By Mail:

An individual must complete a mail-in voter registration application. Applications are available in public libraries, drivers license examining stations, circuit clerk's offices, municipal clerk's offices and public schools. The application must be postmarked or delivered to the circuit clerk 60 days prior to any election in order to be eligible to vote in that election. A qualified voter of the applicant's county of residence must witness the application.

Absentee Balloting

Some registered voters are eligible to vote absentee because of their affiliations with the U.S. armed forces, age or occupational demands. Applications are obtained from the voter registrar in the county of the voter's legal residence. Those qualified electors eligible to vote absentee are:

(1) Employees engaged in interstate transportation;

(2) Students, teachers and administrators and their spouses and dependents;

(3) Employees engaged in offshore employment or employees on a vessel or other watercraft;

(4) Employees, businesspersons, professionals, tradesmen or workers required to be over 50 miles away from the county of their residence on election day due to employment and their spouses and dependents;

(5) Members of Armed Forces and their spouses and dependents;

(6) Members of Merchant Marine or Red Cross and their spouses and dependents;

(7) Disabled war veterans who are patients in any hospital and their spouses and dependents;

(8) Civilians attached to and serving outside the U.S. with any branch of the Armed Forces or Merchant Marine or Red Cross and their spouses and dependents;

(9) Citizens temporarily residing outside the territorial limits of the U.S. and District of Columbia;

(10) Persons who are temporarily or permanently physically disabled;

(11) Persons who are 65 years of age or older;

(12) Parents, spouses and dependents of person with temporary or permanent physical disabilities who are hospitalized outside his county of residence or more than 50 miles away from their residences, who will be with such person on election day; and
